The following Address of the Mayor, Bayliffs, and Burgesses, Gentlemen, and other the Inhabitants of the Borough of New-Windsor, was Presented to His Majesty by Sir Henry Ashurst, Baronet, and Samuel Yeates, Esq; their Representatives in Parliament, accompanied by the Mayor, and six of the Aldermen of the said Borough, introduced by his Grace the Duke of St. Albans, Lord-Lieutenant of the County of Kent, and by his Grace the Duke of Kent, Captain of the Castle of Windsor.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty, The Humble Address of the Mayor, Bayliffs, and Burgesses, Gentlemen, and other the Inhabitants of your Majesty's Borough of New-Windsor.

Most Gracious Sovereign,
 Your Majesty's most Dutiful and Loyal Subjects, in all Humility beg Leave to render the sincere Assurances of our steady Affection to your Majesty's Sacred Person, and of our earnest Endeavours in all things, to promote the Peace and Prosperity of your Government.

It is with the greatest Joy we see your Majesty Crowned with Victory, and we reflect with the greatest Satisfaction, that the most Malicious of your undeserved Enemies, are effectually subdued by your great Wisdom and Courage; and that your deluded Subjects, convinced of their own Folly and Madness, by your Majesty's unparalleled Goodness, are returning to their natural Duty and Allegiance.

We with the most sincere Hearts, and greatest Gratitude, acknowledge the Blessings of your auspicious Reign. We are convinced, that not only our Liberty and Estates, but our Religion, the Church of England, as by Law Established, can only be defended under your Majesty's Rightful and Lawful Title, or transmitted safe to all Posterity, but under the Hereditary Protection of your Royal Progeny.

We detest those malicious Delusions, and false insinuations, of the Dangers of the Church under your present most happy Establishment: We have been with what unusual Diligence and Zeal, they were lately instill'd into the Minds of weak and ignorant People: We are sensible what Use was made of them in this most Unnatural Rebellion, now so happily extinguished, and that they can only tend to the most monstrous of all Propositions, That the Church of England, and the Protestant Interest, can flourish under, or be supported by a Popish Pretender.

Leighfort, June 12. N. S. The Great Duke's Gallies on the 7th Instant, took off Monte Ciruello an Algerine of 22 Guns, called the Pearl: She had aboard alive, 95 Turks, 5 Renegadoes, and 11 Christian Slaves, and 8 or 9 Turks were killed in the Engagement, as were of the Galley that boarded her, 3 Cavalier and 6 Men, and 30 others wounded, bringing their Prize hither Yesterday.

Paris, June 17. We expect here an Ambassador from Holland; and 'tis said, that among the Heads of his Instructions he will be charg'd with the making of an Alliance with France; but 'tis foreseen that the States will draw it out into length, and that it will meet with many Difficulties by the Conditions that will be proposed. The Lord Bolingbroke is sick. We see daily arrive here abundance of disaffected from England, without reckoning those who follow the Pretender, the Number whereof have greatly encreas'd his Court. There was a Tumult lately at Abbeville, where the greatest part of the Workmen employed in the Woollen Manufacture, being not paid, refused to work: and even threatened to force by Violence, the Payment of the Money that was due to them; which has obliged the Regent to send Troops thither, to restrain them in their Duty, and hinder their Rising. In the mean Time Trade and Manufactures are in a lamentable State. The Workmen of Lyons desert almost wholly, and pass into Piedmont, where the Duke of Savoy gives them Subsistence, till they can be settled in his Country at the same Manufactures; to effect which, that Prince, attentive to his Interests, spares no Pains.

The Constitution more and more divides the Minds of People, the Pope animating all the Bishops that have accepted it steadily to maintain themselves, assuring them of his Protection, which not a little disturbs the Regency. We are assured, that Cardinal de la Tremoille dispatched away an Express to the Duke Regent to give him Advice, that he had sent to meet Monsieur Chevalier (whom this Court has sent to the Court of Rome with the Resolution of the King and the Parliament, concerning the Constitution) to tell him that he must remain at Civita-Vecchia till he had received fresh Orders to pass farther, because he feared that he might be insulted at Rome in entering that City, the Holy Father being extremely angry with the Court of France, as having already heard the Contents of Monsieur Chevalier's Dispatches.

This Court appears to be very much displeased with that of Spain, on Account of the great Advantages the latter has granted to England, by the Regulation they have newly concluded with that Crown, upon the Affairs of the South Sea Company and the Assiento for Negroes.
